ABOUT THE CLASS

Every patrol officer is taught how to take a report of a crime that already occurred, but not every officer is taught how to find and catch the bad guys. This class will teach officers how to be pro-active in between their calls for service. This class will equip every officer on how to find the criminal element in our communities and put them in jail. Instead of being told what you CAN'T do, this training will teach you what you CAN do.

Topics covered include target selection, conducting a proper roadside interview to determine if criminal activity is present, obtaining consent to search, finding wanted fugitives, obscure transportation code violations, identifying criminal devices, organized retail theft, fuel theft, re-encoded credit cards and more.

Whereas many police trainings cover general strategies, this class incorporates the intricacies of Texas statutory and case law. By diving deep into Texas law, we equip the Texas peace officer with the knowledge needed to guide their conduct legally and to leverage the law to work in law enforcement's favor.

INSTRUCTOR

D

Michael Guzman is an accomplished patrol officer with nearly 10 years of road experience and is still working patrol today. Michael has worked for two departments and currently patrols one of Texas' largest cities. Knowing that all criminals must get from point A to point B and back again, Michael has developed the skills needed to interdict those preying on our communities. Michael has continually led his departments in felony arrests and has received multiple awards for his work in criminal interdiction. Michael is a firm believer that officers do not need to be in a specialized unit to be proactive and make a difference. He strives to show patrol officers that nearly every crime imaginable can be uncovered by a determined, pro-active patrol officer.
