This intensive 2-day hybrid course combines the operational communication techniques of The Chameleon Cop™ with the ideological threat recognition strategies taught in A Martyr's Psyche™. Day one equips officers with advanced skills to assess behavior, detect deception, and adapt communication under stress, minimizing liability and improving outcomes during public contacts. Officers will learn to identify subtle shifts in language, body cues, and emotional states that often signal truthfulness, deception, or escalation. Emphasis is placed on mastering objective, legally sound interview and report-writing skills that can withstand courtroom scrutiny and internal review. Participants will develop the ability to communicate clearly with individuals from any background, even under duress, improving investigative outcomes and reducing the risk of vicarious liability.

Day two shifts focus to the mindset of radicalized individuals, providing firsthand insight into extremist ideology, recruitment tactics, and psychological manipulation. Officers will learn to differentiate between mainstream religious behaviors and extremist indicators, enabling early threat detection without infringing on civil rights. With today's elevated global threat climate—including renewed calls for violence against Americans and law enforcement by groups such as Al Qaeda, ISIS, the IRGC, and the Taliban—this course provides agencies with practical intelligence and operational tools to identify radicalized behavior before it turns violent. Built on real-world investigations and personal field experience, this training prepares officers to operate more safely, more intelligently, and with greater credibility in the field.
